THE HEATH-TAPEN HOMICIDE. festimony of Those Who Saw the Fatal

Yesterday afternoon, in the Criminal Court. after The Star's report closed in the murder trial of Thos. H. Heath, colored, for the killing of Emanuel Tapen, Anthony Christian of 108 C street testified that he lived upstairs; was looking out of the window. Moses Clark and lugusta Johnson, both colored, who lived in pened, told what they saw of the fight. On cross-examination the woman became excited and often reminded counsel that God was her judge and she was telling the truth.

"Is this the knife asked?" asked counsel. "How do you know it is?"
"That's the knife that came out of Mr.

Fapen."
"But how do you know it?" "But how do you know it?"
"That's the knife that came out of Mr. Tapen jest as shor' as there's a God on the throne."
"Did you see anything of agun?"
"Yes, indeed," replied witness. "He had the gun in my face and was going to shoot us all."

Dr. Koones, who was resident physician of Providence Hospital in November last, gave evidence as to the nature of Tapen's wounds. Witness also told of the patient's knowledge of approaching death, and the court adjourned until this morning.

TODAY'S TESTIMONY. On the resumption of the trial this morning Mr. Clagett called attention to a gun sitting by his desk and said it being loaded he did not propose to sit by it. The gun was removed by the court out of the room.

At the instance of the defendant's counsel he was allowed to retire for examination by a physician—Dr. Demorest of the health office.

Officer Edward H. Herbert testified to Heath

Officer Edward H. Herbert testified to Heath coming to the station, throwing down his hat and saying, "Death on the floor," or something like it, adding, "You can kill me or hang; I have run a knife in a man and broke it off and you'll find him dead." He found the gun in Heath s room and a new cap was on it. When Heath came to the station his shirt was bloody.

Officer Sontag testified to going to the house and seeing the knife sticking in Taben's breast and he (witness) wanted to pull it out, but he would not let him, saying that it was too painful. He went out and returning in a few minutes after Taben gave him the knife. There was an ax in Taben's room and a gun in Heath's room.

Deputy Coroner Schaeffer testified to the post mortem examination made on the body of the deceased. A stab wound of the right chest cut the lung and caused death. Taben was a well-formed man about six feet in height and appar-appended his name.

Assistant District Attorney Howard Clagett testified that he went to Providence Hospital with Mr. Harvey Given and Taben's dying statement was taken. When the statement was commenced Dr. Coombs was present, and Mr. Mullowney and Mr. Brooks came in. The caption as to the deceased being aware of impending death was read to Taben, and he acceded

A. R. Mullowney, assistant district attorney, A. R. Mullowney, assistant district attorney, testified to the scene at the hospital when the statement was taken. Several times he fell back on his pillow and said: "I'm gone. Lord have mercy upon me." He asked about Heath and the answer was that he was all right, and added: "To think that two old men like us to act so." He thought that Taben asked if Heath was alive.

was alive.

Harvey Given of the district attorney's office testified that Taben asked about Heath and said: "He can't be dead for I'm alive," and to Taben's making the statement.

Heath sent his daughter for the police, and, after she had gone, as well as Griffin, Tapen burst the door of Heath's room, entered with anger in his eye, and the blood on his teeth from the wound he had made by biting Heath. The latter ordered Taben out, taking up his gun, and Taben halted at the sill, and after Heath had put the gun down Taben advanced a second time, when Heath seized the shoe knife and the blow was given. If they proved these facts they would expect a verdict of justifiable homicide. He has always been known as a faithful and painstaking officer, but he is a married man with a large family and no means outside of his slender pay. He has had his post of duty changes frequently and has necessarily incurred large expenses in moving his family about. THE HAYTIAN REPUBLIC. atic Relations With That Govern-

The statement has been made, apparently on good authority, that this government is seriously considering the question of cutting off James Terrell, colored, this morning when all diplomatic relations with Hayti. While this Coroner Patterson went there with a jury and could not be verified by a STAR reporter either administered to them an oath to dili-at the hands of naval or State Depart- gently inquire into the facts and decide ment officials, who are, of course, not the cause of death. Terrell died Wednesday anxious to talk upon the matter there seems to be more than a small foundation for the of a fight he had had with his wife at least two story. The action of the Haytian government in refusing to lease the Mole St. Nicholas to the United States for a coaling station is regarded in the nature of a snub to this government, while the letter written by government, while the letter written by Minister Firmin to the special commissioners of the United States in reply to their request for a lease of the Mole St. Nicholas was so unfriendly in intent that serious offense has been taken by the officials here.

A severance of official relations with Hayti just now would serve a double purpose. It would even things up with that small nation, and it would also give the government here a chance to dispose of Minister Douglass by giving him some other place or keeping him home for an indefinite period.

ing him some other place or keeping him home for an indefinite period.

An UNREDEMED PLEDGE.

A special telegram from this city to the New York Herald says: "During the uprising two years ago Hippolyte sent a commissioner to this country who virtually pledged to the United States the lease of a coaling station and certain commercial privileges in the event of the United States lending her moral support to Hippolyte. This the United States did and it proved the turning point in the uprising in the black republic, for shortly afterward Legitime was deposed. Recently a commission was sent to Port au Prince to secure a fulfillment of the pledges. Fannie Terrell, widow of the deceased, was called and she explained how the trouble occurred between her husband and herself. Her husband, she said, did not have to go to bed for several days after the fight.

Dr. Schaeffer gave evidence as to the cause of death and the jury returned a verdict that Terrell's death resulted from either chronic disease of the ear or from the result of the blow inflicted by his wife while protecting herself from a murderous assault with a knife in the hands of her husband, which, in the opinion of the jury, was perfectly justifiable.

The amount of skill shown by the pupils is really remarkable, as many of the articles turned out are well worthy of skilled workmen. The care and judgment shown by the directors and the teachers in picking out the lines of work is also greatly to the credit of the schools.

On the first floor of the building is the metal exhibition, the department being under the charge of J. WEAK-KNEED BRIDEGROOMS

From the Philadelphia Call. Ministers declare that in nine cases out of ten brides are much more self-possessed than are bridegrooms when the marriage ceremony is being performed.

A shy, modest-looking little creature robed in white will stand perfectly erect, looking the minister calmly and squarely in the eye without for an instant losing her self-poise, while the big, blunt six-footer of a bridegroom by her side is pale and nervous and trembling. His fingers are likely to twitch nervously, and he may even hitch at his trouser legs or twist How the Manager of a Portrait Compar a corner of his coat skirt.

I was once "best man" to a stalwart, middle-I was once "best man" to a stalwart, middle-aged bridegroom, noted for his courage and feats of daring, and when the time came for us to go down stairs to meet the bride and her at-tendants he nearly had a fit, and he looked like a walking corpse all through the ceremony. I had to keep saying, "Brace up, old boy," and "Come, come, you've got to go down," to get him started, and at the door he was idiotic tendants he nearly had a fit, and he looked like a walking corpse all through the ceremony. "I, Horace, take thee, Annie, to be my lawful wedded wife," he said, in an unnaturally loud tone, "I, Annie, take thee, Horace, to be my lawful wedded wife," and when the time came for him to introduce his bride to some of his friends who had not yet seen her, he did it by saying, awkwardly, "Ah, er—Miss Carter, this is my wife, Miss Barton," calling her by her maiden name.

this is my wife, Miss Barton," calling her by her maiden name.

Few men say "my wife" easily and naturally the first time they use the words in public.

A funny case was that of a badly rattled bridegroom who stared blankly at the minister until asked if he took "this woman to be his lawful wedded wife," when he started and and said in the blandest manner:

"Beg pardon, were you speaking to me?"

A village preacher said that he once married a rural couple at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a large company of invited guests. The bridegroom was a big, bony, red-faced young fellow, who looked as though he could have felled an ox with his fist, but he shivered and turned pale at the beginning of the ceremony and at its close fell down in a dead faint, to the manifest annoyance of his bride, who had been as cool as a cucumber.

Telegrams to The Star. "LAST DAY" AT WEST POINT.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 12 .- Among the trees on the lawn in front of the library this morning 2,000 people were gathered under a huge canopy. There was a big platform decorated with flags and boards for visitors and the officers of the post and long rows of benches and chairs in front of it for the cadets and the people. The beautiful toilettes of fashion-able women and the dazzling uniforms of the

They took the seats reserved for them in front of the piatform, on which sat the superintendent and the Secretary of War with the board of visitors and a long line of professors in cocked hats on either side. The ladies of the army formed a charming background behind them. Col. Wilson, the superintendent, was the presiding officer. The cadets and all the people arose while Chaplain Postlethwaite offered prayer. Then the matchless band played Oid Hundred. Congressman Burrows of the board of visitors was next introduced. He made a magnificent speech. He said the class of '91 entered the army when the country was at peace with all nations. There was no war nor rumor of war, and the one thought that he desired to impress upon them was this: Faithful desired to impress upon them was this: Faithful and efficient service in the army in times of and ethcient service in the army in times of peace was as important to the government of the United States and as honorable to the soldier as when rendered amid the clash of arms." A nation ever prepared for war holds the bond of every other nation to keep the peace. [Applause.] A government without force is as impossible as a government without law. There is no nation on the face of the globe today, democratic or despotic, that without law. There is no nation on the face of the globe today, democratic or despotic, that has not its right to command its armies, and, if needs be, its navies to enforce its sovereign decrees. Disband the armies of the nations of the globe, dismantle their fleets, and civil government would perish among men [Applause]. Therefore, if at times you become weary of the enloss monotony of camp life in times of peace, let this thought inspire you to renewed zeal."

The speech was full of noble sentiments, of patriotism impressively delivered and it was evident that the cadets and all that heard him were thrilled with patriotic emotion.
